Phyllis was born on November 26, 1933, daughter of Leo W. Boehmer and Catherine Boehmer (Cerwinske) of Alta Vista, Iowa. She attended and graduated from Alta Vista High School. After graduation Phyllis worked in the Charles City bakery.

On August 28, 1952 she married Joseph M. Leibold in Charles City at the Immaculate Conception Church. They had first met at a dance in Alta Vista. The couple made their home in New Hampton on a farm. Phyllis actively participated in the farming operating farm equipment including the combine for over 40 years.

She volunteered as a teacher's aide at St. Mary's grade school while her children were students there. She also was the organist at the St. Mary's Catholic church for many years.

Phyllis was also generous with her time in assisting others in looking after several "older" women who needed help staying in their own homes. She helped bring in groceries and assist with other things. She enjoyed playing bridge. She organized a "Red Hat" group. She also enjoyed raising flowers (especially roses), making flower arrangements, and exhibited at various events. She spent many hours tending to her flower gardens, water fountains, and landscaping often sharing her flowers with others.

Christmas was always an exceptional time with lots of effort going into baking and decorating. For several years they won the New Hampton Christmas lighting contest. For years, Santa Clause would arrive Christmas eve and bring gifts to the families for the holidays. It was also a special time for entertaining friends as well.

Phyllis loved horses, even from an early age, when she would ride her pony to school. She enjoyed raising horses and always had horses around for the kids and grandkids.

In 1998, they started spending time in Florida at their winter home. The home was filled with the "angels" that she collected and displayed in every room in the home. They traveled to Florida every winter since, enjoying making new friends and the warmer weather. Phyllis and Joe enjoyed traveling to Europe, Hawaii, Alaska and the Canadian Rockies with friends and family.

Phyllis is survived by: her husband of 71 years, Joseph; her four sons:
