“ Thinking of you dad and wishing I could give you a big hug. I miss you and mom so much.

Whoever stole the special Vikings birdhouse , mom’s hummingbirds and bench and all the other things from you and mom’s grave should be ashamed of themselves. It is one of the most disturbing and disrespectful acts a person could do. Terrible.

“ This holiday season has been a sad one to say the least without you dad. Not only are you my father but over the years I've got to know you more as a friend and I'm so grateful that you decided to buy that house down the street from where I live many moons ago. You have helped me raise my son and you have helped me become the person I am and encouraged me to never give up and pulled me through when I needed it to see the light again. I miss you and mom so much it makes my heart ache but I find comfort knowing you're in heaven next to mom taking care of her as you always did. I love you dad.

Concert in Nebraska. It was on dad's bucket list to see John Fogerty in concert. The concert was awesome! So glad we got to all go together!

“ Today, I want to honor the life of my dad, Tim, a man whose love, laughter, and gentle wisdom filled every room he entered. His smile could light up even the darkest days, and he had a way of making you feel like the most important person in the world when you were with him.

One of my fondest memories is the last time he, my mom, Kelly, and I were together. We had gathered to share the exciting news that we were adopting a baby—a moment that, looking back, holds an even deeper meaning. I’ll never forget the smile on his face when he heard. It was a smile of pure joy, pride, and excitement for the journey ahead. We spent the day together, playing Farkle, laughing, and making memories that I’ll carry with me forever. That day wasn’t just a gathering; it was a celebration of love, family, and the joy he brought to all of us.

Dad was a teacher, not just by profession but by the way he lived. He taught me the importance of kindness, perseverance, and always being true to oneself. He had a gift for showing how life could be filled with both joy and meaning, whether in the classroom, around a game table, or in a simple conversation. I’ll miss him more than words can say, but I’m forever grateful for the time we had and for the incredible legacy he leaves behind.

Thank you, Dad, for everything. For your love, your laughter, and your unwavering support. You will always be in our hearts, and I promise to carry your spirit forward in all I do.

“Dad, not only have you been my father but beyond that, you’ve been the man in my life that was always there to support me with encouragement, love and understanding at the best times and also those moments I needed a hug and a shoulder to cry on. You always made sure our family had what we needed and always made us feel safe knowing you were there. I had never witnessed you give up on anything and you encouraged us kids growing up making sure we each felt special and loved. One of the many things I admire about you was that you never were judgmental towards anyone and you always saw the potential in others. I will never forget the night you came over to my house at 10:30 in the evening to give me a hug just because you forgot to before I left your house earlier that day. It wasn’t long after mom passed and you were trying to fill the void in my heart from that. I opened the door, you said “I forgot to give you something ” and you hugged me and said “I love you” and turned around and got back in your car and left. You never hesitated when I asked for your help. I’ll never forget when I accidentally volunteered to coach Andy’s soccer team and had no clue about doing that at all, and when I asked you to help me coach, you did so with your best foot forward (your good foot of course) :) for these kids. I loved how you drew up plays and practice drills and you had little note cards with ideas and motivational stories or quotes you wanted to tell the team. The adorable life lessons you would teach the kids while somehow tying it into being relevant with soccer was only one of your many talents. I miss you and mom so much as you two were a big part of my very small circle. You were some of the best people put on this earth and I am so grateful to have gotten the time I did with you and mom. Give mom a hug and make her laugh for me and pet Marley as much as you can as he is missed dearly as well.

Xoxo,
Katy Rose

“ Seifert family,

Carla and I are so sorry for your loss. Please accept our deepest sympathies.

I have not seen or talked with Tim for many years, but I have fond memories of the time we had together in Spencer. We played many a softball games with and against each other. We also painted a house or two.

Coaching a boys little league team to the city championship was something we both had a blast with.

Tim has gone home to the Lord and to be with the Love of his life, Shawn.

Gods loving arms are wrapped around them both.

Respectfully,

Carla and Kevin Hollenkamp
